

PREPARING FOR BIG BATTLE OF THE WAR TODAY IN BELGIUM TERRITORY

BELGIANS RETIRED FROM BRUSSELS IN GOOD ORDER TO ANTWERP.

NEWS CENSORS BUSY

Many Nations Are Found in Foreign Legion Enlisting in Paris to Aid France.

"The most formidable shock in history" will occur on Belgian soil according to French military experts when the great armies of Germans and Austrians on the one side and the allied troops of Belgium, France and Britain on the other, come into close contact. No definite information as to the place where the decisive encounter is to occur is permitted to pass the censor but the general staff of the French army declares itself confident of fighting under the best auspices for its own forces.

Not a shot was fired by the Belgians when entry was made into Brussels by an advance guard of German cavalry. This advance guard, it was reported, was to be followed today by a strong column of German troops encamped in the vicinity.

After the departure of the Belgian troops from the capital communication was cut off between that city and other parts of Belgium and abroad.

The temporary capital of the country, Antwerp, whither the Belgians have retired, is understood to be strongly fortified and military correspondents declare that the preparations for its defense extend over an enormous area while it has been provisioned for a long siege.

British and French warships bombarded and greatly damaged Cattaro, an Austrian seaport, on Wednesday.

Libau, a Russian Baltic seaport, was badly damaged during its two hours' bombardment by a German fleet, according to the captain of a Swedish steamer. The inhabitants were panic stricken.

German warships are reported to have destroyed the harbor works at Pango, Finland.

Japan is making active preparations in view of the approaching expiration on Sunday of the time limit of her ultimatum to Germany.

A final call to arms affecting all able bodied men from twenty to forty-two years old has been issued by the Austrian government.

An Anglo-American roughriders corps has been formed in Paris and its services have been accepted by the French minister of war.

Paris, Aug. 21.—The great square in the Invalides in Paris presented a striking spectacle today as 18,000 foreign volunteers assembled in orderly formation under the gaze of their various nations to be mustered. There were 4,300 Jews from all countries who desired to serve as a separate command. There were also 3,000 Belgians, 4,500 Italians, 2,000 Russians, 2,000 Swiss, 2,000 Spaniards, 600 Roumanians, 335 Luxemburgers and 125 Americans.

Waited Mobilization. All these volunteers were obliged to wait until the completion of the mobilization of the French regular forces, which was accomplished yesterday. In the meantime 30,000 foreign residents in France have inscribed their names provisionally on the rolls of a committee, calling itself "the friends of France."

To Take Time. Only those volunteers resident in Paris presented themselves today. It took several days to comply with the formalities and examination of the men. It is thought that anything like mobilized bodies of troops.

German Advance. Official news made public in Paris today says that the German forces continued to pass the Meuse in the vicinity of Huy and that an important concentration is being carried out in Belgium this (Friday) morning.

No French territory is occupied by the enemy, except a piece of enclosed land at Audun-le-Rosien in the department of Meurthe and Moselle.

Telegraph Quits. London, Aug. 21.—Telegraphic communication between England and Brussels was entirely interrupted today and no dispatches were accepted for any place in the Belgium provinces of Namur, Liege, Luxembourg, Brabant or Antwerp, except for the city of Antwerp.

Camp Near Brussels. London, Aug. 21.—A telegram from Ostend, Belgium, to the Daily Mail, dated last night, said the main body of the German army around Brussels camped on the night just outside the city, which already has been formally occupied by the small advance guards. The remainder of the troops will enter the Belgian capital today.

A dispatch to the Central News from Ghent, under yesterday's date from Paris saying that French forces defeated a detachment of German cavalry coming from Leopoldshöhe and Huelingen in an engagement near Basel.

The Germans retired in the direction of St. Louis, leaving five hundred dead and wounded on the field. They lost most of their horses.

Prisoners of War. London, Aug. 21, 6:00 p. m.—A dispatch to the Reuters Telegraph company from Bruges says that eighteen German officers and 432 men prisoners of war have been sent away from that city via Dunkirk for England. When they left Bruges they were escorted by a dozen gendarmes with fixed bands.

Aircraft Active. Amsterdam, Aug. 21, 3:45 p. m.—Notable activity is evident among the German aircraft which fly frequently over Holland.

A Zeppelin following the course of the Rhine, passed over Zevenaar today. Dutch soldiers shot at it, and the dirigible disappeared over the German border.

Another Zeppelin flew over Maastricht last night and followed the road to Meeren, afterward disappearing.

German aeroplanes also have been seen in several directions scouting over Holland.

Pray for Success. London, Aug. 21.—Intercessory services were held in practically every church in England today on behalf of the nations engaged in war with a special prayer for the success of the British arms.

King George and Queen Mary, with Princess Mary, were present at the service in Westminster Abbey.

Many Americans and French joined in the various services which were attended by representatives of all classes.

Paris, Aug. 21, 4:40 p. m.—In a battle today with German forces, a French troop captured twenty-one German field guns, four flags and nineteen automobiles.

Lieutenant Colonel Rousseau, a noted military critic and genius, states that a great battle has begun along a front of two hundred and fifty miles with 2,500,000 men participating.

CHICAGO MAKES BID FOR TRADE IN PERU

Branch Bank Established at Lima and Other Steps Taken to Attract South American Business.

Chicago, Aug. 21.—The establishment of a Chicago bank in Lima, Peru, and of a trade clearing house there, are included in plans for the increased trade of this city and other parts of the country and with Peru and western South America generally, it was learned today John J. Arnold, a Chicago banker, in Washington, induced Frederick Alfonzo Peset, the Peruvian minister for the United States, to come here September 3 to discuss trade relations with business men of this city and of the Mississippi Valley.

The government of Peru owns a line of steamships now plying on the west coast of South America and is anxious to extend this commerce to the United States with a northern terminus either at New York or New Orleans.

Peset is interested whether Chicago and Mississippi river points can supply the ships with regular cargoes and whether Peruvian imports can be handled economically through New Orleans.

The minister believes the establishment of the French banks would go far toward bringing the countries together on a basis of mutual trade expansion.

FALLS 1,000 FEET; AVIATOR SURVIVES

Monoplane Flyer Loops the Loop at Hempstead Aviation Field, Has Accident But Will Live.

Mineola, New York, Aug. 21.—Albert Fleux of New York city, an aviator, fell one thousand feet in his monoplane to the Hempstead aviation field today and escaped with his life. He was badly bruised, but surgeons at the Nassau hospital said he was suffering chiefly from shock and they thought he would live.

Fleux fell while looping the loop. His engine went dead. He swung himself into the cockpit of the machine so that he would not be caught beneath the heavy engine.

As he climbed back his weight so disturbed the balance of the monoplane that instead of falling nose down, it turned about one hundred feet from the earth and hit the ground.

POPE'S SISTER ILL; DEATH REPORT FALSE

Erroneous Statement Made Public in London that Anna Sarlo Had Expired.

London, August 21.—An erroneous statement was made public in London late last night and telegraphed to New York that Anna Sarlo, sister of the late Pope Pius X, had died in Rome shortly after the passing away of her brother. The shock caused by the Pontiff's end was given the cause.

It appeared today that this report was the result of a telegraphic error which occurred in the transmission of a dispatch from Rome. The Pope's sister is alive, although suffering from the shock. She was already indisposed when the Pontiff was taken ill and yesterday she was obliged to take to her bed. She is under the care of Dr. Amici.

Mr. McReynolds has been in frequent communication with the White House since the investigation was started, and expects to make his formal report soon. The president has directed that prosecution be pressed vigorously.

DISABLED WORKMAN SEEKS COMPENSATION

Marinette Man, 54 Years Old, to Fight in Court for Reimbursement—Was Hit By a Tree.

Madison, Wis., Aug. 21.—An award of workmen's compensation by the industrial commission to a 54-year-old working man, totally and permanently disabled, which was refused by the state, is to be fought out in the courts.

John Nichol, an employee of the N. Ludington Company of Marinette, is the individual around whom the legal fight will be waged. Nichol is the victim of a typical accident in the northern Wisconsin forests. He was struck by a tree which had been cut down by a fellow servant. Under the conditions which prevailed prior to the passage of the workmen's compensation act, Nichol could not have received any damages whatever. If he had brought suit against his employer the case would have been thrown out of court on the ground that the accident was approximately due to the negligence of a fellow-servant.

The case of Nichol is the first one under the new section of the compensation act adopted in the 1913 legislature, which provides increased indemnity for workmen who fall victim to something worse than death. The legislature decided that a totally and permanently incapacitated workman was in a much worse fix than a workman or the able-bodied wife and child of a dead workman; on this theory it adopted an amendment requiring that a totally permanently incapacitated man should receive six times his annual wage payable in weekly installments. This is approximately one-third more than is paid in case of death.

The payment of compensation to Nichol by the Standard Accident Insurance Company of Detroit, which carries the insurance for the Ludington Company. The insurance adjusters put up the claim that Nichol, prior to the accident, had suffered from hardened arteries and kidney trouble and that the paralytic condition resulting from the accident was partially superinduced by these pre-existing ailments.

The industrial commission, however, in its interpretation of the workmen's compensation law, decided that the accident was the proximate cause of Nichol's pitiful condition and awarded him six times his annual wage amounting to $3,300.

In its complaint, filed today, the accident insurance company sets up a claim that Nichol's present condition is due partly to prior disabilities and asks the court to reverse the award on the ground that it is not supported by the facts.

As in other appeals from the awards of the industrial commission, the state is placed in the unique position of putting all its legal forces behind the commission which, in fact, means that the state of Wisconsin will fight the case for bed-ridden John Nichol.

CARDINALS ANXIOUS TO PREVENT SCHISM IN PAPAL ELECTION

DIVISION OF COLLEGE INTO FOUR GROUPS FORESEEN AS RESULT OF EUROPEAN WAR.

With Forty-Two Votes Required for Election Combination of Italians Would be Insufficient.

Rome, August 21.—Cardinals here to attend the conclave for the election of a successor to Pope Pius X. are making strong efforts to prevent the conclave presenting a spectacle of schism among the foreign cardinals as a result of the conflict now raging through Europe.

Possible Division. If such a breach should occur, it is expected the foreign cardinals would form groups as follows: Seven from France, five from Spain, two each from England and Portugal, and one each from Ireland, Belgium and Canada, form a total of 19. The two neutrals, therefore, must be Hungarians make up another group of 8.

The neutral group is composed of the three Americans and one each from Brazil and Holland, forming a total of five.

Separately stands the bulk of the Italian cardinals numbering thirty-three.

May Cause Deadlock. The whole sacred college numbers sixty-five cardinals, so that the next Pope needs forty-two votes to be elected. The Italians alone or with the five neutrals, therefore, insufficient, while any attempt to join with the German or Anglo-French troops would cause other splits.

It appears likely that the choice will fall on an Italian.

Nothing officially is known about the late Pope's will, but the Giornale d'Italia has it drawn in humble, plus language. It recommends his successor to grant his sisters a pension of $60 monthly each, but does not mention his niece, Gilda Parillon. It also says that a pension of $12 monthly be given his valet.

Italian Probable Choice. Rome, August 21.—Today the death of Pope Pius X. but the sorrowing did not prevent the active furtherance of preparation for the holding of a conclave of the sacred college of cardinals for the election of the new Pope. It is certain that an Italian was chosen as the Italian cardinals form the strongest section of the sacred college.

As a preliminary to the meeting of the cardinals, the papal secretary of state, Cardinal Merry Del Val, gave up his office in accordance of custom and all the high officials of the Vatican did likewise.

Physician's Statement. The late Pope's physician, Dr. Marchisavia, declared in an interview that his patient suffered much physically and mentally through the outbreak of the war in Europe.

The will of the late pontiff whose executors, it is expected, will be Cardinal Merry Del Val and De Lai, was written in modest language. It is said to contain recommendations for a simple burial in the crypt of St. Peter and an appeal for small pensions for the dead Pope's sisters and for one of his body servants.

Americans to Leave. New York, August 21.—Two of the three American cardinals were to leave New York this afternoon for Rome to participate in the conclave which will elect a successor to Pope Pius X. They are Cardinals O'Connor of Boston and Cardinal Gibbons of Baltimore. They will sail on the liner Caepoc.

The third American Cardinal, John Farley of New York, is in Switzerland. Cable advice from yesterday's date would attend it. A conclave irrespective of the 118, he might incur in traveling to Rome.

AUSTRIA CALLS OUT ALL FIGHTING MEN

All Able Bodied Men Between Ages of Twenty and Forty-Two Years Must Enlist for Service.

London, August 21.—A dispatch to the exchange telegraph company from Vienna under yesterday's date says the Austrian government has issued a final call to arms from all able bodied men from the ages of twenty to forty-two years.

EXCUSES SAYING EXPENSE ACCOUNTS WERE MAILED IN TIME ARE NOT VALID.

Madison, Wis., August 21.—Unless a candidate sends his expense statement on or before the day of filing by registered mail he is in danger of not meeting the requirements of the law, according to Attorney General Owen's opinion of James F. Malone, district attorney of Dodge county today. Sending the statement by any other method is at the sender's risk and the plea that it was mailed in time but was not received by the filing officer is not a valid excuse.

Pleasant Fields of Holy Writ

Motto for this week: "Whatever strong situations I have in my life are not of my creation, but are taken from the Bible."—Thomas Henry Hall, Caine, 1863.

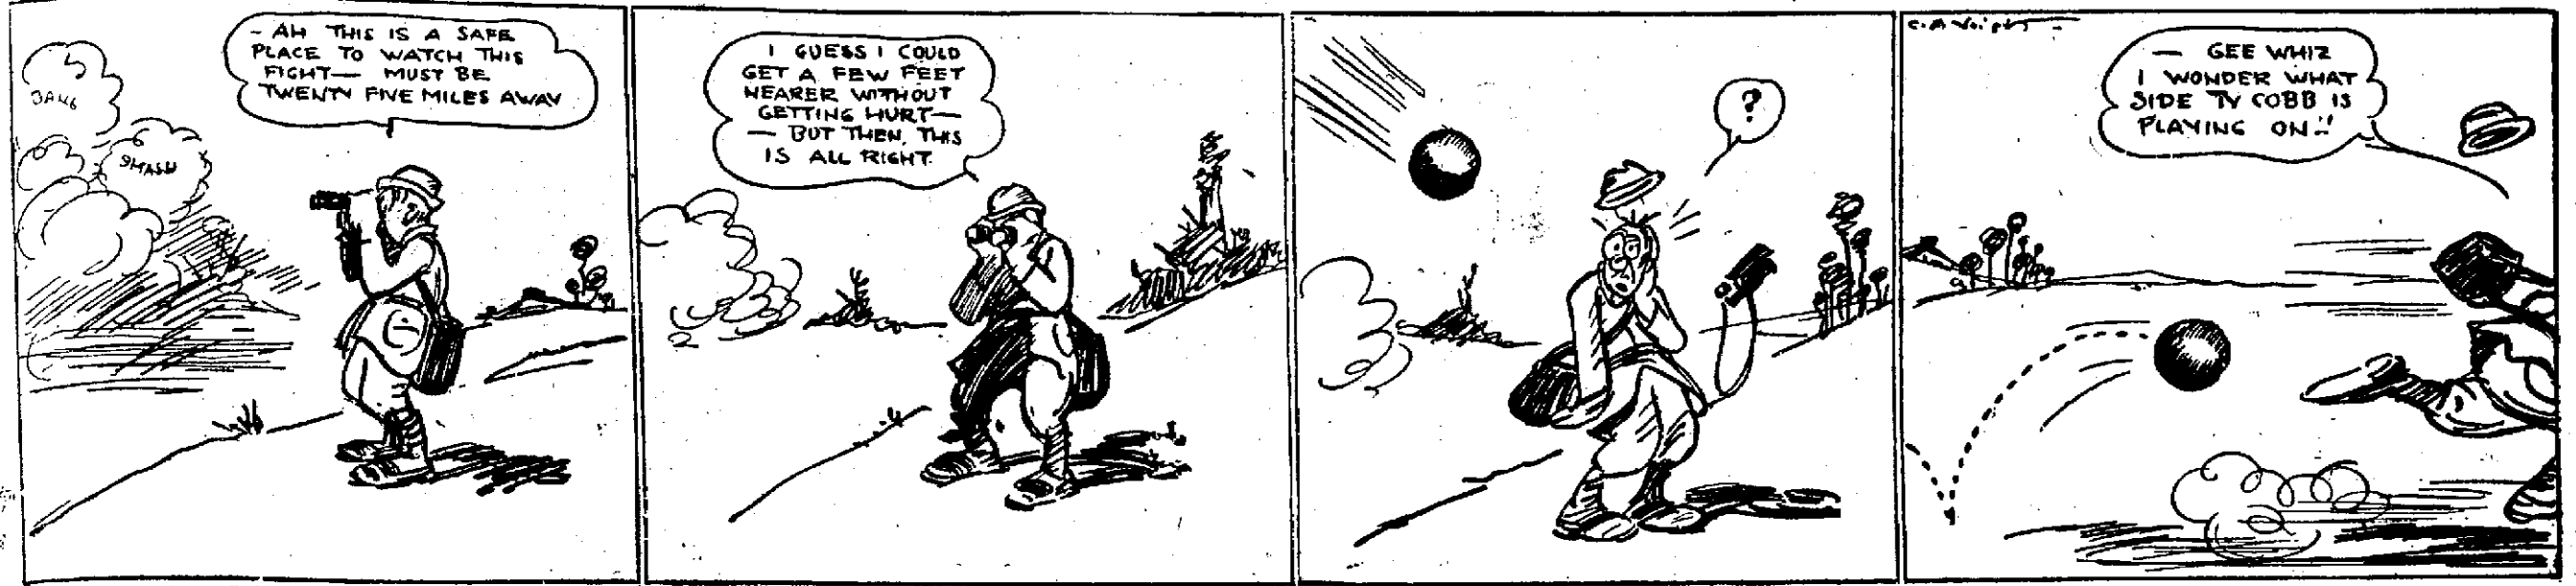

Lesson 111. Matthew 22:1-14. Aug. 23, 1914.

THE WEDDING FEAST (THE STORY)

The marvel is that the religious life could ever have been dreamed of, or even surrendered, or that a wedding feast, which, according to Oriental custom, is so prolonged and various that it requires the plural number to express it.

When the Pharisees wished to hear, Philip preached, he "commanded" him to conduct service in St. George's Chapel, Windsor. That is etiquette of court. Royalty orders, never requests. So in the parable the refusal of those who were hidden was more than a declination. It was a revolt; a practical denial of the king's kingship. The cool indifference which turned to the sordid things of the show and field and the coldness of the heart, that made a burlesque of the affair, and that in turn by the vengeful feeling which murdered the servants who urged the king to a feast of the kingdom, is one of the most dramatic of Jesus to his enemies. The true state of the case and the fearful denouement could not have been pictured with greater effect.

Jesus was still the King of Israel. The Messiah was the King's Son, whose intimate relation to it the national was called to acknowledge. The rejection of the Messiah, then, immediately brought down upon the nation the retributive justice in the establishment of the nation. The call of the entire to possess the forfeited rights of the Jews, and their obedience to that call forms a part of the history of the nation. The individual inspection of every soul in the judgment. Under the general call of the gospel, good and bad are gathered into the visible Church. In the period of probation, separation can not be made. When, however, the "King comes in," a scrutiny of each individual will occur, and the tares will then be separated from the wheat, the bad fish from the good, the goats from the sheep, and the evil from the good. There is evidently a hiatus. Jesus passes from the call to the inspection of the individual inspection of every soul in the judgment. ELGIN IS SCENE OF AUTO RACES TODAY

Elgin, Ill., Aug. 21.—The start of the annual Elgin races, the classic events in automobile circles in the middle west, the course lay over nearly nine miles of country, through the greatest dairy country of the world and fringed by great crowds of spectators who swarmed into Elgin last night and early today. Around 30 laps the drivers will run their cars for a total distance of 270 miles.

Today's event for the Chicago Automobile club trophy and prizes worth about $3,500 sent a field of 20 drivers away today. The Elgin National trophy race tomorrow will attract the larger crowd, though the prize money offered is about the same. Motor car traditions has placed the Elgin National as the big event in the middle west racing and it has held the larger share of the interest from year to year.

Glenn Anderson, who won last year's Elgin National, was an entrant in today's race. He was one of the top class favorites. Anderson arrived here two weeks in advance of the race, established the Stutz camp and has engaged in daily workouts. Wishart and Pullen, the Mercedes stars, were other early arrivals this year.

Further improvement of the course this year has reduced the danger of accidents to a minimum. Course officials found last year that by eliminating the dangerous "hairpin" turn they had down the possibilities of serious accidents and they made other similar alterations this year. The course was entirely resurfaced; the turns were covered with crushed stone and rolled and so backed that there was a slight lessening of speed will be necessary in taking the most dangerous curves.

Drivers in this year's races have more prize money to look forward to than in previous years. Cash prizes of $10,000 have been offered for the fastest lap in each day's race, and necessary companies have piled up offers for fastest time at certain distances.

The special entry list for the Elgin races, to be run today and Saturday, follows:

Twenty-three drivers of the stars of the automobile racing world with their machines in perfect mechanical trim, were ready to be sent away the fifth day in the 305-mile grind of the Elgin National.

The night and a quarter mile oiled track, hardened by a heavy rain, was like concrete, and a record breaking speed was expected.

But Burnham was forced to withdraw his entry owing to an accident in practice yesterday. He broke a cylinder and was unable to make repairs in time to start.

But De Palma, a former winner of the event, driving a foreign car from its record breaking contest in the grand Prix at Lyons, France, and Spencer Wishart were the favorites. De Palma expects to average 100 miles an hour.

Start at 11 o'clock. Owing to the large number of entries the cars were to be started two at a time, an innovation of the Elgin event. Tudor Tetzel and F. Dearborn were selected to start the race, which was scheduled to begin at 11 o'clock.

Three drivers who have won the Elgin race were among the starters. They are Ralph Mulford, Glenn Anderson and De Palma. Barney Oldfield, Harry Grant, Wishart and Mortimer Roberts were among the veteran drivers.

Hundreds of automobiles began streaming into the city from Chicago and surrounding cities. There was every indication that it would be a record breaker.

CARDS TO FACE BIG "BOB" FUCIK SUNDAY

Madison Kippe to be Hardest Foe of Season at Driving Park on Sabbath Afternoon.

When "Bob" Fucik's name is heard around Janesville, baseball fans sit up and take notice. This marvel on the slab and a crack semipro player in southern Wisconsin, will do the hurling for the Madison Kipp team Sunday afternoon at the Janesville Cardinals, for the second encounter of the summer.

For Janesville, "Mighty" George Crandall, will do the heaving. Not a more closer pitching duel could be expected, for both Fucik and Crandall possess wonderful control, mixed with slow and speedy ones. The Cardinals are playing good ball at the present time, and it is their aim to beat Bob at his own game. Hall will catch for Janesville.

AMUSEMENTS

AT THE APOLLO.
A twenty minute minstrel first act, introducing the two smallest men in the world is one of the principal features, at the Apollo for the last half of the week, and as a laugh producer is the real attraction.

Johnson who offer this act are all clever singers, dancers and comedians. They dress the act excellently, complete minstrel show comprising only three people it gives the opportunity of more than the proverbial laugh a second, and the two diminutive end men manage to keep the audience in a good humor from the start to the finish.

ECLIPSE OF SUN WAS BARELY NOTICEABLE THIS MORNING IN HEAVENS.

Few rose early enough today to observe the eclipse of the sun, and those few who did were slightly disappointed. The dark moon merely nicked a little edge out of his solar majesty's face and then retired. This happened at the real sunrise.

The eclipse this year was to be witnessed only along the Atlantic coast and in the great lake region. Astronomical sharks said they might have had a good view of the eclipse had they gone to Europe.

PLYMOUTH

Plymouth, Aug. 20.—Mrs. Anton Smithstead entertained about sixty-five friends and neighbors last Friday evening in honor of her sister Miss Olive Fossum whose marriage to Mr. Nels Renley is scheduled for this month. The bride received a great many handsome as well as useful gifts. The gentlemen friends of the prospective groom met at the home of the bride and a delicious refreshment were served.

Many from this vicinity attended the fair at Janesville the past week. Miss Helen Walters of Hanover, visited Tuesday with Miss Grace Schuman.

CIRCUS AERIALISTS WANT INSURANCE

Ringling Bros., Performers Bring Suit to Compel Company to Issue Accident Policy.

The Klarkonian family, one of a score of mid-air troupes now appearing with Ringling Brothers' circus, have brought suit in an effort to compel a well-known New York insurance company to insure them against accident or loss of life.

The insurance company has refused to accept the risk on the ground that it is too great a hazard. If the Klarkonians will agree to use a net under their act and content themselves with performing the usual feats seen in circus tents, a policy will be written. The company makes positive objection to the triple, twisting somersaults performed by these artists. In the meantime the Klarkonians continue to perform twice daily and their attorneys have instituted suit to compel insurance on the ground that the New York concern has written policies for aerialists appearing with other shows.

PUBLISHERS' DON'TS.

The New York World publishes a list of "Don'ts for Housewives" as issued by the commissioner of weights and measures of New York city.

While it does not directly apply to Janesville housewives, still it shows the trend of sentiment the country over as regards the present prices.

The following is the list published:

Don't be afraid of the shop-keeper.

Don't let him weigh the paper, twine, tray or any other container and charge you for it. It is against the law.

Don't accept a put-up package unless it is labeled with its weight. There's a fine for not so marking it.

Don't be mystified by the figures of a compounding scale. Learn to read them.

Don't let the butcher rest his finger on a projecting bone and don't let him press his body against the scale.

Don't let the tradesman engage you in gossip while he is weighing your purchase.

Don't forget to re-weigh everything at home.

Don't let a fancy package fascinate you.

Don't mistake cheapness for economy, and don't buy at "war prices" without pricing elsewhere.

Don't be afraid to carry a bundle.

Don't be too proud or too lazy to do your own buying.

Don't buy in small quantities if you can help it.

Don't ask for "a nickel's worth." Specify weight or quantity.

Don't forget there are a lot of cheap and good foodstuffs.

Don't depend altogether on the looks of a shop.

Don't send children to the stores if you can help it.

Don't forget that wholesale prices are published in the newspapers, and don't believe everything your tradesman tells you about their being raised.

In commenting upon the situation in the east as regards prices the New York Globe asked the following thought that may be interesting:

"The majority of our citizens are firmly of the opinion that most of the shop-keepers who deal in foods are direct descendants of Dick Turpin.

This opinion has become even more firmly rooted by the recent skying of prices for practically everything that goes into the market basket on the pretext that the war is to blame for a shortage in supply which is more or less official than real. And now Commissioner of Weights and Measures Hartigan comes along with a list of 'Don'ts' to housekeepers which reads more than anything else like a proclamation warning good citizens against a band of highwaymen and pick-pockets.

"In other words, when you go into a store to make a purchase keep your eyes open, and don't for a moment take them off the man or woman who is waiting on you. Pay no attention to any chattering about the weather, innocent though it seems, may be part of a carefully planned scheme to distract your attention so that you may be the more easily swindled. Preserve a grim silence and compel the shop-keeper to do the same, if necessary, at the point of a gun.

"It is hard to believe we have come to such a pass. There must be honest shop-keepers in this city, men who are satisfied with a fair profit and will not stoop to the low-down swindling tricks practised by some of the butchers and grocers. It is time these men got together and exposed the cheats who bring such discredit on their trade. If they will let the public know where it can be sure of fair dealing they will find doubtless a ready response in increased business and a corresponding increase in profits. They should not permit the whole retail meat and grocery trade of New York to be set down as a despicable trust of thieves and swindlers."

UNLEASHED BARBARISM.

In a world-famous essay on Frederick the Great of Prussia, Macaulay shows how that unprovoked seizure of Silesia stirred up forces of which Frederick could have had no conception. As the historian says, the British and French, in what are now industrial portions of the eastern states of this country, were employing the tomahawk and scalping knife of the American Indian upon each other; while in India Clive and Duplex had roused the native races to a devastating conflict, the meaning of which they could not possibly understand.

Without denouncing Japan as barbaric, and admitting all her second-hand art, letters and civilization derived from China, and everything she has so wonderfully absorbed from what is pleased to call itself western civilization, her appearance in the world conflict is a terrible lesson to ourselves no less than to others.

It is easy to see that, white, red, yellow, brown or black, the beast is close under the human skin. What chance would Shakespeare have had against the pistol of the New York gunman, the offscouring of those penitential sweepings which we are trying (rather unsuccessfully) to amalgamate into the citizenship of this country? What chance did Professor Curie, the discoverer of radium, stand against a recklessly driven automobile? If all the forces of the Far East are to be united with the barbarism, long latent but now potent, of Europe, what will happen to the civilization of the west to which man can be said to kill him. He is the potential father of a limitless generation of children. As selected for the modern army, he is the best blood and physique of his race. If we could only send our "weeds" to the front, our Industrial Workers of the World, and all the other parasites that excessive prosperity breeds, even then it when the assumedly civilized nations of the world wage their best blood in the competition which must ruin everybody concerned, with the victor only a little worse off than the vanquished?

Already the German sea commerce has disappeared. If Germany wins, it will take her many years of effort, with an impoverished people, to build it up again; or even to build up the manufactures which kept her afloat, navy, her mercantile fleet, and whatever industry she may be able to wrest in the event of victory, from her impoverished customers across the French or Russian frontier.

What is the sense of it? What are these lessons of civilization that we are reading to Japan and other nations, as Kipling describes, "without the law"? What kind of "white man's burden" is this? We are pro-German, or pro-British, or pro-French, or pro-Hades.

Cannot we be pro-Christ, as we so continually profess, and so cheaply pray?

The Germans have taken Brussels, announce the dispatches, but they do not go into detail as to how many troops the allies lost while Germany was doing it. If anyone had kept track of the Germans that are supposed to have been killed in this war in the war it would tell in the millions, and still they push on.

New China wants to know if the United States would accept from Germany the treaty port Japan demands it is to return to China. Of course it is merely a subterfuge to evade the actual transfer by Germany to China and thus retain its dignity and at the same time embroil the United States and Japan in a quarrel.

War News is meagre and most unsatisfactory, still the sensational journals continue to issue war extras with guesses rather than facts as the main element of their news.

Just at present Uncle Sam has all it wants to do in keeping watch on the Mexican situation without mixing up in foreign wars across the water.

On The Spur of The Moment

Learning a la Mode.

In latter days whenever a man finds that he needs the dough,

He knows that he can get it if he isn't quite a fool.

He sits him down and figures out a scheme that's sure to grow,

And then he writes an ad and starts a correspondence school.

There's no excuse for ignorance in any living man;

You can be taught most anything that you may want to learn.

When knowledge can be had so cheap on the mail order plan,

You can pick up the booklets anywhere you may turn.

They teach horseshoeing now by mail, the barber trade as well;

They teach you how to run a motor boat or aeroplane,

Hair dressing, manicuring and too many arts to tell;

They even teach you how to run machines that will make rats.

Short story writing is a thing they dearly love to teach,

Although they don't teach you how to sell the stuff you write.

They tell you how to darn a sock or how to make a speech,

They also teach you how to breathe, to walk, to chew, to bite.

They teach you how to clean straw hats, and make a lot of dough,

Or how to start a trunk railroad and make a million cool.

If there is anything on earth that you would like to know,

Just send your check and leave it to the correspondence school.

Musings of a Pessimist.

Any woman who doesn't know enough to wear a sensible hat that won't go out of style in two weeks doesn't know enough to vote.

Nature has made only one greater mistake than the mannish woman, and that is the sissy man.

If you let any man alone he will buy a red necktie.

The party who invented that nifty little institution known as the hook-and-eye was a misanthrope and had a grudge against the human race.

Can anybody imagine Abraham Lincoln sitting down on a stool in front of a little table and having his nails manicured?

There isn't a church choir singer in this country whose friends do not think he ought to be in grand opera.

Reason is a great man, but he surely handed his fellow countrymen a wallop when he invented the photograph.

Times.

Nothing can happen in this world which does not cause a rise in the price of tires. A famine in China will send tires up 10 per cent, and when a patent leather pattern in Venezuela starts another revolution tires jump 20 per cent. An epidemic of scarlatina in Switzerland will send tires up 30 per cent. When you see a man with an extra tire on his car he is a millionaire.

So, What's the Use? I like to lie in a hammock. In the shade of an apple tree, And read a Bob Chambers novel; That's comfort enough for me. I like to spend my time splashing abroad in a big machine; I'm simply a fiend for touring; My middle name's "Gasoline."

I like to sail o'er the ocean And loaf on a handsome yacht; It makes me forget my troubles And every care that I've got. I'm dippy to take my leisure And mimmie the little rich; I could dope out a summer program That's swell without a hitch. But there is one thing preventing. Just one thing that's raising hob. I guess that you're on to the secret—I can't do it and hold my job.

Oh, Cheer Up! Why be downcast. Why be blue? There's another Chance for you.

Do not grumble. Grouch and curse; The idea! Things might be a whole lot worse.

To be happy. It's a pipe. Easy—very. For blundering Pies are ripe.

MEET AT LONDON

PLEASES DOCTORS

Janesville Doctors Who Attended World's Congress of Surgeons Tell of Sessions.

Doctors T. W. Nuzum and E. F. Woods, who attended the congress of surgeons of North America in London recently, and whose stories of escape from the war zone were given last evening's Gazette, had much to say of the great meeting they had attended. The clinics were attended by the most prominent surgeons and doctors of the world. The London doctors had saved their special cases for the visitors during a period of two weeks and the operations performed were wonderful in their highly educating and instructive and the Englishmen went to the fullest extent to make their visitors enjoy the trips.

Dr. J. B. Murphy, Chicago, as president of the congress, opened the meeting with the usual address and his paper, "Diseases of the Joints," is said to have been the most spectacular paper given during the congress. The meeting was in session for seven days.

CROP IS DAMAGED BY SEVERE STORMS

Breaking of Drouth Attended by Mail and Wind in Some Localities—Buyers Hold Off.

The breaking of the drouth has been attended with some vicious storms and heavy rainfalls covering most of the tobacco growing sections early this week. Like most storms following a heated spell they were accompanied by heavy wind and hail, in various localities. The amount of damage sustained in the destruction of curing sheds or by hail it is difficult at this writing to estimate. Soaking rains, however, have saturated the soil and will prove a great advantage to the later tobacco fields. The present outlook is that at least half the crop has a chance yet to make fair binder leaf with favorable conditions from now on. Even the tobacco now being harvested may be given some help by the late rains, though much of the small spindling sort can hardly make more than B stock.

Under the present conditions field buying could hardly be expected until the fate of the crop is more definitely determined.

Sampling of last season's packings has been started in a limited way, though the general opinion is that the tobacco is hardly fit for inspection. Nothing has developed in the markets of old leaf worthy of mention.

The shipments out of storage do not exceed 300 cases from this market to all points since last report.—Edgerton Reporter.

COLORED DYES ARE SCARCE IN COUNTRY

Old Dye Stuff is Being Bought in Large Quantities, Which Shows Gradual Decline of Supply.

The present war crisis in Europe is affecting dye stuffs as well as many other imported articles. A letter received by Carl F. Brockhaus, dye dealer in this city, explains the sudden decline in the supply of dyes, which commodity is imported into America from Elberfeld, Germany, the principal dye manufacturing center of the world.

The letter written by an American wholesale buyer requests Mr. Brockhaus to send all of his old dyestuffs to them, to be made over into new grades again. This is the first call for old dyes in many years, by the American dye merchants, handling the foreign product. It is presumed that the importation of the foreign dyes is to a certain extent less than usual, which causes the sudden demand for old dyestuffs, which in all probability will be made over in this country. Dyestuffs is an important product in America and drop in the supply of this commodity would mean a loss as well as would any other article.

Grips Your Heart!

If you've got a drop of red blood in your veins—if your heart beats one bit faster to the tune of romance—adventure—love and mystery—then you've something in store so far ahead of anything you've ever read or seen that you'll forget the best among the rest.

The Story

We cinched the exclusive publication rights to Louis Joseph Vance's new sensation, The Trey O' Hearts—we did it at a price that staggered other publishers—biggest sum ever paid for a serial of its kind.

The Pictures

The Universal Film Manufacturing Co. pronounced The Trey O' Hearts the best action story for film purposes they had seen in three years. They backed up their judgment by putting the punch and $200,000 cash into a set of pictures that are more than remarkable—they're simply extraordinary.

Won't Cost You One Red Penny

You read a paper regularly. Read ours and get all the soul-stirring, heart-gripping installments of The Trey O' Hearts—it sets a mile mark in literature and it won't cost you a penny more to read it.

The Fortune Hunter

"The Fortune Hunter"—"The Black Bag"—"The Brass Bowl"—Louis Joseph Vance wrote 'em all. You know what millions thought of these stories. You know how they gripped—thrilled and inspired. But The Trey O' Hearts overshadows them all. Vance has set himself a mark in this story he'll never beat and we doubt if even he, master of the written word, will ever pen another like it. Action—plot and telling, all combine to push The Trey O' Hearts into the top notch of the best sellers in record time.

Mental Back Somersaults

No matter how clever, you can't fathom the plot of The Trey O' Hearts one inch ahead of the words you're reading or the scene you're viewing. It keeps you turning mental back somersaults all the way whether you're reading the story or seeing the pictures.

Superhuman Imagination

The imagination of this man Vance is superhuman—surprise is too mild a word to describe situations The Trey O' Hearts is filled with to overflowing. And the end of every installment, written or pictured, is a startling climax that leaves you tense in every nerve, waiting and watching for the next one.

"Father," announced the young man who was crammed full of digested education, "I cannot accede to your wishes in this matter. I feel as the poet did, that I am the captain of my soul." The father gasped silently at the egotistical young man, and then replied: "Very well, son, but you are headed for the broad line and the true captain of his soul wins that title on the firing line."

WEST A VISITOR AT GUERNSEY MEETING

PORT ATKINSON BREEDERS' AS-SOCIATION MET AT LAKE
KOSHKONONG.

POINTS ARE DEVELOPED

Many Speakers Spread Valuable instruction to Gathering at Picnic.
(By A. B. West.)

It was the pleasure of the writer recently to attend a meeting of the Port Atkinson Guernsey Breeders' Association held at Lake Koshkonong. The meeting brought their families and friends and after a picnic the day was an interesting program. The first topic was how to increase interest in the association. Several members spoke on this topic and the following points were developed:

1st—Love for the Guernsey breed will develop love for the association.
2nd—Love for Jefferson county will promote interest in the association for the association is of benefit to the county.
As Port Atkinson comes to be known as a Guernsey center, buyers will come there to purchase the surplus stock of the breeders and enable them to sell at better advantage.
Judicious advertising will bring this about as it has already done in Waukesha county. The Waukesha Guernsey Association runs an advertising matter in some of the leading dairy and breeders' periodicals, the expense of the advertising being borne by breeders whose names appear in the advertisement.

One member brought out the fact that farmers as a rule do not realize the value of advertising, and as an example stated a case which came under his observation. He saw the streets of Port Atkinson this summer first class timothy hay sold for $5.00 per ton. He advertised his and sold it for $12.00 per ton, though it was no better than that which sold for $5.00.

The principal speaker of the day was Scribner of Rosendale. His topic was "The Management of the Dairy Herd." Mr. Scribner stated that he was a Jersey man, but was always interested in Guernseys as well as Jerseys.

Mr. Scribner discussed his topic under three heads: 1—Feeding. 2—Comfort. 3—Breeding. Under the first he said: "A man who is a good feeder may succeed with even mediocre cows. In summer they should be fed with the best of cows, and so closely feeding associated with success or failure. The man who has not provided some sort of succulent feed either molasses or alfalfa to supplement the pastures during these weeks of drought is falling as a feeder. Feed that contains the proper constituents should be provided, and be fed to that which is most palatable. Cows like human beings, have their preferences. They also like variety, for that reason variety in feed should be sought.

Cows to do their best for their owners should be made comfortable.
In winter the barns should be not only warm, but light and sunny and well ventilated. In summer they should be kept free from flies and as cool as possible.

The stalls should be comfortable and adjusted to the needs of the individual cows. Anything that makes the cows uncomfortable makes performance profitable and one who loves his cows will find out what is needed to ensure their comfort.

A considerate owner will not regard his cows as so many machines but rather as so many individuals with different dispositions and will treat them with kindness, never af-frightening a farmer who observes his cows closely will know what each produces and by judicious breeding will improve his herd.

The program closed with a cow
judging contest conducted as follows:
Three cows nearly equal in quality from the herd of A. R. Hagedorn were brought out the unprofitable cows and breeding from those who are good producers, one may build up a herd in a few years and will bring good returns to the owner.

Such meetings as these do much to stimulate interest in high class dairying and to impart information about the breed, but more than that they are of especial value to a community because of the co-operation secured among the farmers and the advantages to the farmers of a community engaged in breeding dairy stock.
A breeder of Guernseys has better opportunities for breeding and stands a better chance of disposing of his surplus stock if he is in a community engaged in the same business than he does if isolated.

Waukesha county has both Guernsey and Holstein breeders' associations that are of great benefit to the county, making Waukesha, both a Holstein and Guernsey center, known throughout the United States.
Lake Mills, in Jefferson county, is known as a Holstein center. Buyers who purchase by the carload come into these communities and being able to pick out stock by the carload, offer better prices, so that breeders are able to dispose of their surplus stock to advantage. Lake Mills has a buyer living at that place pays on the average to the farmers of $1 at vicinity about $10,000 per annum.
grade Holsteins for a cash price.
Again when a breeder is looking for a certain kind of animal he will go to a center of that breed, where there is an association, knowing that the first man to whom he applies, does not have what he wants he will refer him to some of his neighbors who will be able to supply him.

Why should not Rock county have a number of these associations?
Holstein association, (there is the beginning of a Holstein center about Clinton) a Guernsey association, a Shorthorn association?
Let our county get into line with its neighbors.

RECEIVES A LETTER FROM W. S. JEFFRIS

Janeville Banker and Family Were at Athens, Greece, on July 29th.

William Bladen received a letter this morning from W. S. Jeffris, who has been traveling in Europe with family. The letter was dated at Athens, Greece, July 29th and has been nearly a month on the way. Although the Jeffris party was aware that the war had begun, from the time Mr. Jeffris' letter it is evident that they were not fully cognizant of the dangerous situation in which they might be placed. A few excerpts are given below:

Through some misunderstanding on the part of the American Express company we have been forced to put in eight days in Athens, which is twice as long as is necessary for we go nowhere else in Greece because of the heat.
We leave Athens at 8:00 p. m. Saturday, Aug. 1, and reach Constantinople
Monday evening, Aug. 3, about 5:00 p. m. Of course we can't read the Greek newspapers except to get snatches of the news. Everybody is greatly excited about the war and we hardly know what to expect for ourselves as we have our tickets from Constantinople in through Serbia and Austria and the news this morning to the effect that the Serbians and Austrians have had a battle in which the Austrians were defeated. Greek sympathies are all for the Serbians and the people of Athens look for a general war of all Europe if the thing is not settled by conference soon. I don't pretend to know anything about Greece, but I am sure that we shall not have any trouble in getting through and all train service through Serbia may be suspended.

Mr. Jeffris intended to remain in Constantinople but two or three days and then to go on to London. On 25th. There is little doubt in the minds of friends here but that he has fallen in this and that the party is still stranded in Constantinople or in Athens.

ADJUSTABLE LADDER LEG

It Gives a Safe Footing on Irregular or Hilly Ground.

The ladder is an almost indispensable piece of furniture around the suburban or country home if not the city house, but it is frequently necessary to build up one leg to take care of slopes and irregularities of the ground. These contrivances are rarely substantial and often serious accidents result from their use.
A new ladder which is equipped to accommodate itself to any contour of the ground has recently been patented and its construction will be readily seen and understood from the accompanying illustration. The essential

LADDER'S ADJUSTABLE FOOT.

feature of the invention is a brace rod adapted to extend transversely of the ladder sides and a bow-shaped foot loosely connected to the brace rod, said foot being constructed to automatically cause a binding action to take place between the foot and said connection when the ladder is tipped out of the plane of the foot, thereby preventing the ladder from slipping.

Fine Feathers

Novelized from Eugene Walter's Drama by the same name.

By WEBSTER DENISON

(Copyright © A. C. McClure & Co., 1914)

Jane carried the box and paper into the bedroom and tarried a moment at her mirror. Naturalists tell us that the sight of gay colors will make the peacock strut and spread his feathers. What woman will not fix and primp at the sight of new plumage? By law of man Jane had no right to this coat. By law of nature she had every right. When a wise Creator made the fur and feather covered animals of the universe he used his greatest handiwork upon the males. Theirs is the highly colored plumage, the long, soft hair, the deep-lashed manes and vivid spots. But when he made woman from a mere rib of a man he cast the mold in perfect form and made her worthy of all the embellishment that man can bestow. From creation down woman has claimed her right and it has been man's pleasure to give. Now and then we find males who like to deck their persons. Native chiefs have sold a kingdom for a string of beads, but they were fools. Fine feathers are, in truth, a woman's right.

When Jane re-entered the room Frieda had returned and was gingerly feeling and stroking the new coat as if it were some animated object that might coo or purr at her caress. Jane, in sharp tones startled her from her worship.

"Is Mrs. Collins coming?" she asked.

"Yes."

"Then you had better hurry lunch."

"Frieda, we are going out."

"Yes," the girl agreed, but still lost in rapt admiration of the coat she backed away as if to turn her back would be grave insult.

"Oh, my dearie, dear!" was Mrs. Collins' greeting for Jane had donned the coat again before she opened the door to her neighbor's knock. "You've got a motor coat!"

"Yes," said Jane in mock imitation of her maid. "Isn't it a beauty?"

"Yes, dear, it certainly is," Mrs. Collins agreed, "but it seems to me it's a little impracticable for Staten Island unless," she added, with a little switch of her head, "you expect some more prosperity and a car of your own!"

"That's not impossible," Jane retorted, for Mrs. Collins' voice had an unmistakable tone of pique. "But I didn't have that in mind when I got it. Mr. Brand is coming over again to-day and that's why I called you over. You'll chaperon, won't you?"

Mrs. Collins walked up to Jane with arms akimbo. She looked not at her neighbor, however, but at her neighbor's coat.

"I'm afraid not," she answered.

"Why not, Mrs. Collins?" Jane exclaimed. "You're the only chaperon I've got. Surely you're not going to forsake me?"

Jane's neighbor, for all her crudities, was not without a sense of humor or the means of expressing it. And Jane's rapid progression in modes of dress and amusement had begun to rankle. There was just a perception of a curl to her rather pretty mouth as she asked:

"Are you sure that you need a chaperon now?"

Jane flushed. She could not mistake the other's meaning.

"Why, Mrs. Collins!" she exclaimed. "You know I wouldn't go out with Mr. Brand alone. And you know, too, that he comes here on business. He's just as anxious to have you along as I am."

"Is he?"

"Why certainly."

"Well, I feel better now. I guess I hadn't noticed it. But just the same, I don't believe I can go with you. I'll be frank. You're getting to be too fine a bird for me. I mean the clothes."

"Nonsense, Mrs. Collins. I haven't any more than you, only I've been getting mine all at once. Why, I used to feel awfully ashamed of myself when I went out with you."

"I know," her neighbor agreed, "but it's different now. Look at that coat. Won't I look great in that car with you and your millionaire?"

Jane dropped her up.

"Mrs. Collins!" she exclaimed. "Whatever you do or don't do, please don't talk to me that way. My millionaire. You simply mustn't say such things. I won't have it, that's all."

"Well, dearie, if we're going to quarrel I think I'll be going. Only don't be foolish. I didn't mean you owned Brand or that he owned you. I have a good time myself now and then and nobody knows better than I do that if a woman's careful she can play with fire and not burn even a little finger."

"But I tell you, you've got the wrong idea," Jane retorted. "Mr. Brand and I have a certain business transaction on and if you won't take my word for it who will? I can't explain what it is at present, but if it goes through, Mrs. Collins, it'll help Bob more than you have any idea. It's a big thing."

"It must be," the neighbor agreed. "It takes long enough to cloze it."

"But you'll go with us today, won't you?" Jane coaxed. "Perhaps this will be the last time."

She knew that she spoke the truth, too. She had nothing to offer Brand now but one desperate move and this she had determined to make, if necessary. If Bob was so blinded to her advice and preferred his business opinions to her love, he could keep his opinions and his terrible sense of honesty and lose her. Jane had reached this conviction after the scene with her husband on his return. She contemplated nothing that would compromise herself or her husband. She had merely decided on a separation as a last resort to bring him to his senses, and if this failed—if he would not cross the chasm and come to her—well, they would see then who was the stronger.

Unquestionably she must see Brand today. It was only fair to him to let him know that she had made no progress as his agent; that apparently the "conspiracy" was a failure. So she must mollify her chaperon at any cost.

"Please come with us today, Mrs. Collins," she coaxed again. "I'll feel awfully obliged to you and if it's just the coat you're worrying about you can wear it. We're just the same height. Mr. Brand'll think it's yours."

"Tut, tut, child," Mrs. Collins replied coaxingly. "There's no use wasting fine feathers on such an old bird as me. It isn't only the coat I'm thinking about. I've been in the back of that motor car, playing plain gooseberry ever since you've been going out with Mr. Brand; and in front you and him whispered about something I knew nothing about. Oh, it's been mighty thrilling, I can tell you."

"But you've enjoyed the rides, haven't you?"

"My goodness, yes. I've had a little more fresh air and I guess that's the staff of life over here. But don't worry, dearie, I was young myself once and I might have wanted some one to do the same for me."

"Then run along and get ready," Jane urged, for she saw that her neighbor persisted in her interpretation of the cause of the outings and realized the uselessness of denial.

Mrs. Collins, having succumbed to Jane's entreaties, now attributed her perverseness to nervousness. While her hostess was dispensing a bit of panacea for all such ills the doorbell rang. Mrs. Collins jumped to her feet.

"Goodness!" she exclaimed, "I hope that isn't Mr. Brand. He'll put me on the running board if he sees me in this get-up."

She quickly discarded a white apron that she wore over a silk petticoat of large gray and black plaids, pulled down a tight-fitting silk waist and bustled herself with her luxuriant hair, the untidiness of which was in keeping with her morning attire.

Jane, having called to her aide-de-camp in the kitchen, without avail, went to the door herself.

"It can't be Mr. Brand," she said. "It's too early for him."

It wasn't. It was Dick. He came in with his usual bluster of good nature and greeting, bowed obsequiously to Mrs. Collins and extended a hand to Jane.

"Greeting, Queen Olga!" he cried. "Thank you. You find me well."

"The village pest," Mrs. Collins commented. She sat down with head erect and surveyed him with infinite scorn.

"Dick!" Jane exclaimed. "You surprised me."

"What, on Wednesday?"

"I know, but so early."

"Ah," he answered, laughingly, "as yonder friend's husband James would say, a stitch in time saves nine. Being surrounded in Manhattan by temptations and three fellows with money, I broke away from the convivial group so that in alighting from the car that approaches your palatial mansion I would not endanger the unblemished mantle of dust which lies to trap you."

beauty on the soul of your parent. Mrs. Collins arose and looked at Jane.

"He talks like a Christmas edition of the Fireside Companion," she observed icily. "I think I'll be going. When Mr. Brand calls with his auto you can send for me."

CHAPTER XV.

Surprised.

The inadvertent use of Brand's name did not give Dick the surprise he feigned. As Mrs. Collins went out he looked at Jane in a startled sort of way and she advanced to him.

"You heard?" she said.

"Of course I heard."

"Well, what about it?" she asked, defiantly.

"You take my question out of my mouth, Jane. That is what I was wondering. What about it?"

Her eyes flashed. Again she was very beautiful and again there appeared that queenly bearing that bespoke a dominant spirit and made her words superfluous.

"Dick," she said, "you and I have been good friends. I hope that we shall remain so. But this is my affair. This isn't the first time that Brand has been here."

Dick Meade.

"I met him once."

"But I mean since then. He's been here several times."

"I know that, too," the reporter answered calmly. "But I'm sorry he's coming today."

"Sorry? Why should you be sorry? You have some perverted idea of why he comes—and what he's doing. Why don't you express it?"

"I haven't qualified as a moral censor as yet, Jane. You say I have some idea of why Brand is coming. Yes, I have an idea, but I have no knowledge. I tell you I have known that he has been coming and without Bob's knowledge."

He stepped forward and took her hand. "Jane, I've been—well, not extremely happy, but I haven't inflicted my grief on you or anybody else."

"Certainly not," she answered aggressively. "There's no reason why you should. Mr. Brand has as much right to be here as you or anyone else."

He dropped her hand and smiled a little sadly as he answered:

"I'm afraid that is a little unworthy of you. I am here at the standing invitation of the Reynolds; not lately renewed on your part, to be sure, but quite recently on Bob's. That's why I'm sorry; sorry for him and you and perhaps for your prospective guest. Though I don't believe," he added quickly, "I shall shed any great quantity of tears on his account. Bob's coming home early. That's why I'm here. He asked me to meet him here at three o'clock."

He took but did watch.

"It's a quarter past three now," he said. "What time are we likely to have the pleasure of Mr. Brand's company?"

"Any minute," Jane answered coolly. "He should be here now." She cast a bored look of ascetic elegance at Dick, as if to say: "Is there any reason why he shouldn't be my guest if I choose to have him?" But the glance was lost on Dick, or he preferred to ignore it. He dropped his sapient air for an expression of real alarm. Impulsively he took her hand again. She made as if to withdraw it, but the reporter's grasp was firm.

"Jane!" he exclaimed. "Bob mustn't see Brand here. I am not questioning you or your motives, but I know Bob's feelings toward that man and I know that Brand can't be here with his knowledge." He turned quickly toward the table for his hat. "I'll get out and stop him," he said. "Tell Bob I was here if he comes first. He might see me. I'll say I was down to the German's."

The reporter's mind worked rapidly. He started hurriedly to the door.

"Wait!" Jane ordered. "You'll do nothing of the sort. I'll attend to this thing myself. Mr. Brand wouldn't pay any attention to you in the first place and in the second I don't want to stop his coming here. Bob has got to know sooner or later and it might as well be today. Whatever you may think, I've done nothing that I'm ashamed of."

"I don't say you have, Jane. I'm not accusing you of anything. I am just looking at it from the outsider's point of view. Honestly," he continued warmly, "I haven't a thought in the world that you have done anything wrong, but you may have blundered, and, Jane, when a poor man's wife secretly meets a rich man in her husband's absence, it's going to take a lot of love to make him overlook it, and a lot more to keep him from guessing at what's been going on."

His hand was still on the door-knob.

"Don't you think I had better go?" he insisted.

"No, I don't."

Don't Let a Cold Settle on Your Lungs

Many cases of Lung Trouble can be traced directly to a cold which has been neglected, and which, as a result, has affected the lungs. If you have a persistent cough or cold, take Eckman's Alternative in such cases and you will find it most beneficial. Eckman's Alternative is the means of completely restoring to health many persons who had serious lung trouble. Read of this case:

"Gentlemen: During the winter of 1911 I contracted a severe cold, which settled in my lungs. The doctor pronounced it lung trouble. I tried nearly every preparation without any result and kept getting worse. Eckman's Alternative was recommended to me and I commenced using it as a last resort. The first bottle seemed to give no relief, in fact, I seemed to feel worse, but I kept on using the medicine and found out the first bottle had really started me on the road to recovery by loosening the mucus and making me expectorate freely. After using the medicine for some time my cold ceased. I gained flesh and today I am a well man."

Vivid Pen Picture Showing How War Has Effected Working Class Throughout the England Villages

Except for the meagre telegraphic dispatches, passed and duly censored by the government officials, the tales of returned travelers, who escaped the war zone, the real effects of the war upon the people of the country, that are directly affected is not heard of England in particular is most seriously affected although the war, actual fighting, is far from its close. The shutting down of factories, the closing of large industries, the calling for the soldiers of the yeomanry, the territorials, the reservists and the recruits, has all had its effect upon business and the actual start of war has affected prices.

Mr. and Mrs. S. J. M. Moore, who reside at 321 Racine street, recently received a most interesting letter from their son, Frederick Moore, who resides at Burton on the Trent and who had planned to join his parents in this country shortly, but whose departure will be seriously delayed by the war. It is a vivid pen picture of just how the war has affected a community like Burton on the Trent, which by the way, is the location of the big ale breweries whose product is known wherever civilized man is located.

Under the date of August 6th, he writes in part as follows:

"I do not know what we shall do if this fearful business keeps on long, as we have only had three days of it and food is nearly doubled in price now. Sugar and butter are double what they were. Half the meat shops have closed and those that are open have scarcely anything to sell and already the 'co-op' will only supply each customer once a week and then only with a limited quantity to those only who are members."

"Burton is getting to be quite a military center and arrangements have been made to accommodate ten thousand soldiers in the town, who are to be placed in the malt houses in various parts of the town while the town hall is to be the headquarters of the officers attached to them. They are building huge temporary flats for detaining horses and gun stores, and so forth, beside the Midland grain warehouse at Derby Turn. The 'Terriers' are all called out and are waiting orders to proceed out for coast defense."

"The military authorities have com-

Burton early in the morning. Those who allied to obey the proclamation were, of course, liable to be dealt with as deserters. "The recruits were their appearance, and practically all passed the medical examination. On Tuesday night a large number of those who had served their enlistment for a fresh term, glad of the opportunity of once again associating with old comrades."

Waiting for Orders. "A large crowd continued to watch the movement of officers and men in the vicinity of the drill hall throughout the morning, and the usual salutations were exchanged when friend recognized friend. Those who proceeded to headquarters by way of High street were doubtless pleased at the sight of a large Union Jack which flew from one of the tradesmen's windows, and it seemed to inspire them to greater patriotism."

"It was ascertained that the men who remained at camp to clear the ground received orders on Tuesday afternoon to return, and some were given only half an hour to catch the train, which landed them in Burton shortly before nine o'clock. More than a dozen, however, have been obliged to stay longer than was anticipated, for in view of a shortage of trucks the men were unable to make headway with their work of clearing up until Tuesday. They were then permitted to send off all government equipment, and the task of dealing with the remainder was reserved until the next day."

"The work of mobilization is proceeding apace, and it is likely to take some time to complete. As the morning advanced much speculation was rife as to the destination of the men, and a number of rumors gained currency. It was, however, officially gathered that no orders had been received on this point, and that a day or two would have to elapse before they would leave the town. The general impression is that after medical inspection today, which is being carried out by Dr. R. E. C. Slack, of the R. A. M. C., also the examination of kit, the men will get in as much training as possible before their departure, presumably for the East Coast."

Deputy Coroner's Resignation. "There was a report going the way that the Deputy Coroner, Mr. R. F. Ratcliff, M. P., and Major Baguley paid an early visit to Stafford in the morning, but no confirmation of this could be obtained."

It may be noted, however, that Colonel Ratcliff was in close attendance at the drill hall during the assembling of his men. When the latter answered the roll call, it was seen that a good percentage had arrived, and it was announced that by today the full battalion of a thousand will have been mustered. This number is the strongest on record. The men proceeded to give attention to their rifle cleaning out the barrels and making other necessary preparations. All appeared to be in good spirits, and anxious to hear of their movements. All the officers were busy throughout, and it may be here mentioned that Captain E. Tomkinson has tendered his resignation as deputy coroner in view of his duties that are now demanded of him."

Great Public Interest. "The great interest which is being evinced in the town is also demonstrated in Station street, the whole length of this thoroughfare from Gould street to the station being thronged with people, apparently anticipating an early departure of the troops, and anxious to give a hearty send-off. The station bridge was particularly congested, the footwalk being almost impassable. At certain corners people were standing two and three feet deep."

The streets of the town bore a very animated aspect. All roads lead to Rome—or, in other words, to the drill hall in Horinglow street—and from eight o'clock to nine everywhere were to be met members of the local Yeomanry and Territorial forces, in most instances accompanied by their relatives and friends. Knots of people were assembled at all street corners discussing what news of the war was available and the London newspapers eagerly vended in the streets by newsboys—a somewhat unusual procedure in Burton."

"It was noticeable that complete unanimity seemed to prevail, adherents of all political creeds agreeing in their support of the action of the cabinet. Whilst the terrors of the war before England appeared to be appreciated, yet there was almost a feeling of relief, some quarters at least, that the British policy at last had been declared, and that the nation could advance with its eyes open."

Food Prices Rise. "Food prices in Burton showed a very serious increase on Wednesday. Sugar was double its normal price; bacon had increased 25 per cent, the loaf of bread cost 3½d. instead of 3d., and flour had risen 4d. per stone."

"The principal provision dealers of the town are in collaboration and a uniform scale of prices has been drawn up. Every effort is being made to check the steady rise, but it is absolutely necessary, as a precaution against the food being cleared the market, that the prices should be high. It is pointed out that if normal rates were allowed to prevail there would be a big tendency for a few of the better class people to lay in stores of provisions, and that it is essential to prevent this."

"As a result no person is allowed to purchase more foodstuff than the average weekly orders and each grocer baker serves only his own customers. To remove all temptation to pass from shop to shop. Townfolk are appealed not to attempt to store up food, as such a procedure inevitably hits the poorer classes."

"Supplies are very short, and as far as can be seen it will be impossible to replenish to any extent in the near future. All kinds of food have advanced in price. Flour is still fairly easy, because it was bought early on the prices of last week. It has advanced 1d. or 1½d. per lb., but it must be noted only that it appears quite probable that traffic with the great butter-producing countries of Holland and Denmark may be expected to have advanced, the price of butter is up a quarter, and by about one-sixth, and cheese by one-fifth."

"Every effort is being made in London to maintain the price of flour as far as possible, but the commodity has risen fourpence per stone, involving a rise in the price of bread two pence per stone, or a halfpenny in the case of each 4½lb. loaf. There is a pronounced shortage of flour in the town, and strictest measures are being taken to limit the quantity purchased by each customer. Supplies are confidently expected very shortly, but should they fail to arrive the town will be without flour for a long time. The price of confectionery has risen, small cakes now being one penny each, and not seven for sixpence."

"Starling's may be pointed out that Burton in a number of instances seems to be better situated than other towns. In Scotland sugar has risen to the abnormal price of 6d. per lb. Local traders emphasized the necessity of paying cash as far as possible. Tea merchants, they state, will not forward that commodity unless payment is in draught. Without this happen to have a good supply of gold local traders will shortly be a very awkward position."

Barley Unobtainable. "Malt barley is now practically unobtainable, and Messrs. R. Peach and Company, Ltd., have had to close down. The small supplies that have changed hands have risen in price about £1 per quarter."

Burton Gentlemen Volunteer. "A number of local gentlemen with volunteer experience have offered their services to the government. They include Mr. Harry Bubb, son of Mr. H. Bubb, of Branstone Road, who hurriedly left Hamburg, where he had been sojourning, on Sunday last."

It is announced that the Lord Chancellor has issued directions that all county court offices, including of course Burton, be closed during the extended Bank Holiday. That is to say, until Friday."

Proclamations Posted in Burton. "Considerable interest was evinced in five proclamations posted outside the Town Hall, and a large crowd continually gathered around reading them. The first is for extending the services of time-expired men in the Royal Navy, and calling upon seamen, or any class or classes in the Navy to extend the respective term of their services for a period of five years if their services be so long required. The second proclamation calls out men of the Royal Naval Reserve and Royal Fleet Reserve, and officers of the Royal Naval Volunteer Reserve, while the third proclamation demands the services of the officers of the Royal Naval Reserve. Another proclamation orders the postponement of the payment of certain bills in exchange, while the other authorizes the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty to requisition any British ship or British vessel within the British Isles or the adjacent waters."

Intercession Services. "Special services of intercession in connection with the war were held in Burton last evening at the Parish church, Christ church, and George Street chapel. The first was conducted by the Vicar of Burton."

The Rev. E. Freeman, R. D., gave a most delightful and eloquent address, which must have deeply impressed all who heard it. The service at Christ was conducted by the vicar (Rev. W. R. Guest), and that at George Street was promoted by the Free Church council."

Town Hall, Brewery Maltings and Schools Commandeered. "One hundred workmen are engaged in erecting a railway siding for the use of troops at Derby Turn, between the grain warehouse and the road. This fact may be taken as very strong support for the persistent rumor that Burton will be used as a mobilization center for a considerable area, and that large numbers of troops may be expected to be temporarily located in the town. The siding, which has railway lines communicating with the main line, is strongly composed of sleepers. It is about two hundred yards long, and a road is being made to Derby Turn. Official information as to the use of the siding is lacking, but there cannot be the slightest doubt that it is to be intended for troops, probably in large numbers. It was stated that a huge shed would immediately be erected against the siding, but it is only fair to say that the statement would be received with reservation."

Eurton as Mobilizing Center for Staffordshire. "The important news was gleaned this afternoon that Burton is to constitute the mobilizing center for the Staffordshire brigades. The town is considered to offer admirable facilities in this direction, and as billet master, Supt. Moss has been busily engaged making the necessary arrangements for the accommodation of the 6,000 men who will arrive."

"It is encouraging to mention that the utmost assistance has been forthcoming, and that the brewery authorities and tradesmen have been only too anxious to do their part. In the first place the Town Hall is to become the headquarters of the Brigade officers and the men of the Burton Battalion will be quartered in Messrs. Peach & Co's maltings in Wood street. The mobilizing troops will be stationed in four of Messrs. Bass & Co's maltings on the Shobnall road, in three of Messrs. Allsopp & Sons' maltings, and in Christ church schools, Uxbridge street. The accommodation will be so ample at present, as Messrs. Bass & Co's maltings will provide for close upon 3,000 men."

"The troops commenced to arrive last evening, and included an artillery regiment belonging to Hanley which have been camping at Trawsfynydd, North Wales."

Horses and Vehicles Impressed. "The greatest activity prevailed throughout the town, officers passing in motor cars from one brewery to another, and to the premises of the various tradesmen. Shortly after the order was received to impress horses, instructions came to hand for commandeering all steam lorries, and many motor vehicles as possible. Military officers were accompanied to the breweries and business premises by police constables, and the former would intimate the payment which the government was prepared to make for the use of the vehicles without delay was emphasized throughout. It is stated that one large firm alone provided thirty horses and twenty vehicles. There is a demand for a good many men to can drive motor vehicles to enlist for a year, or until the close of the war, pay at rate of 6s. per day, with rations, being, it is said, offered."

"One striking instance of the patriotism which is being displayed is contained in a story which is to hand from two or three sources. A German workman in the town, in the course of his employment, is said to have bent a piece of piping and to have observed to a comrade 'This is how we shall serve you.' The remark was naturally not taken kindly, and the Englishman, giving vent to his patriotic feelings, is reported to have given the German a violent blow in the face, which accounted for several of his teeth, and retorted, 'And that is how we will serve you.'"

"As showing what mobilization means to some Burton families, it may be mentioned that Dr. E. C. Slack, R. M. C., and his three sons have had to answer the 'call to arms.'"

"A Reservist, according to notice given, was married at the registry office on Tuesday, and next day was mobilized."

Marching and Drilling for Youths. "Mr. A. Fox, headmaster of Broadway Schools, who is one of Burton's oldest volunteer veterans, is anxious to gather together a number of young scholars of the Broadway Schools, with a view to taking marching and drilling lessons. Mr. Fox is applying for the use of the schoolyard for drilling purposes."

"The relatively enormous sum of £100 was taken at the Burton Co-operative society headquarters in Byrkley street on Tuesday. The usual takings on that day amount to £40, so that the tremendous demand for foodstuffs can be estimated. This morning the big premises were packed with eager customers, many of whom had to wait for half an hour before they could be served by the perspiring assistants. The manager stated that the pressure was 'awful.'"

The society, however, were loth to raise the price of food to any extent. Sugar normally, twopenny per lb., has been raised to threepence; bacon advanced one penny per lb. and fourpence per stone, but the price of bread was not raised today. The shops closed this afternoon, but dispatching provisions and preparing to cope with the enormous demand that the morrow will inevitably bring."

holidays for the time being in view of the fact that certain members of the staffs are being held in reserve."

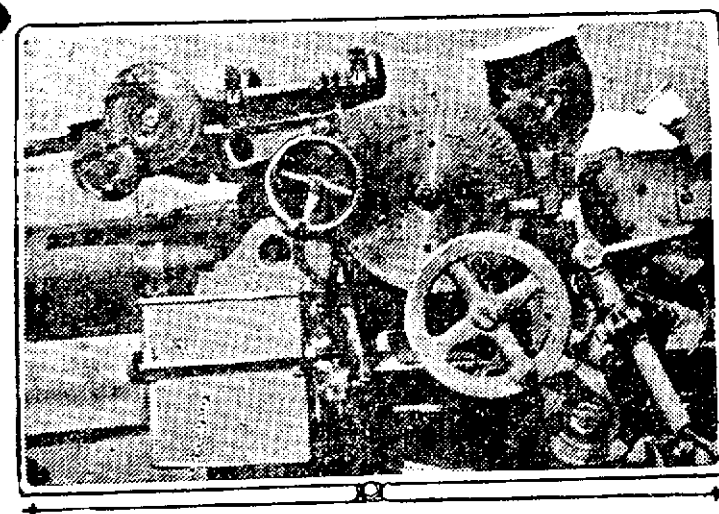

Burton Firms and Their Soldier Employees. "The following notice was posted up on the premises of Messrs. Bass, Ratcliff and Gretton, Wednesday:—"Bass, Ratcliff and Gretton, Ltd., notify all their employees that the places of all men employed by the company who join His Majesty's forces in any capacity will be kept open for them on return. Further arrangements will be announced later on. "By Order, "George Myott, Secretary."

"It may be added that other firms in the town are adopting the same patriotic course."

Bifecting the Yeomanry. "There was pronounced congestion in the telegraphic service throughout the day. An official telegram from London took four hours to transmit."

Legion of Frontiersmen. "Any owners of motor cars or motor cycles not already attached to the Regulars or Territorial forces are invited to forthwith send in their names and addresses to Frontiersman W. B. Darley, 35 High street, Men who can shoot preferred."

MAN BEHIND GUN STILL INDISPENSABLE

Gunnery on board an English destroyer.

mandered horses and motor cars from all over the town, breweries and private firms alike. Last Saturday the 'Terriers' went to camp at St. Asaph, close to Rhyl, and somewhere about midnight, the same night, were called out and received orders to return to Burton and they were back here on Monday morning and have been in uniform and armed since awaiting orders, but received none up to Tuesday, although expecting them every minute."

Mr. Moore enclosed with his letter the following clipping from the Burton Chronicle which augments his tale and will prove most interesting reading. His words and other members of his family, came to Janeville from Bangland a year and a half ago and he was to have joined them, sailing the first of the coming month. The clipping enclosed in the letter is as follows:

"For the first time in modern history the call to arms was yesterday sounded in Burton street, yet, in view of Britain's peril, it may with truth be said that the blast of the bugle made sweet music in the ears of the hundreds of Territorials who heard it. Their services were required by the country, and in obedience to the command of the King, contained in Tuesday's proclamation, they were to mobilize at their headquarters at 2 o'clock. The men of the local battalion also received, individually, intimation of the proclamation by a special early morning post."

The buglers, sounding the 'assembly' and the 'fall in,' quickly drew people to their doors to witness the strange scenes enacted outside. Soldiers were bidding good-bye to sweethearts, children, parents, and sweethearts. They knew not how long they were to be parted from those they loved, for events pass quickly at a time like the present."

"It has been said that there is nothing to arouse enthusiasm more quickly than the call of the bugle, and it certainly seemed to give inspiration to the khaki-clad men and youths as they made their way to the drill hall."

"Some had been compelled to leave in the midst of family troubles and bereavements; their departure caused uneasiness and grief to many, which could only be alleviated by the all-powerful patriotism which filled the hearts of the men."

"The men of the local battalion also received, individually, intimation of the proclamation by a special early morning post."

We Shall Be Pleased To Demonstrate The Pulling Power of the Want Ad Page to You at Any Time

For Sale: Ford car. Used one year. In good condition throughout. Reason for selling—owner needs larger car. No reasonable offer refused. This is a bargain for someone, and will pay to investigate. Call 783, Green.

The above ad cost more than what used to be termed a "want ad" price for an ad. But, it was a splendid investment of the advertiser's money. It sold his car and it sold it quick. In fact, it sold it before he was just ready to let it slide. He had no idea how quick these silent little "pullers" worked.

This is a local case. You know the man—far better than we do. He is one of your business friends that you say, "Howdy" to every day. He always did believe in advertising. Are you as progressive (and wise) as he? How much have you ever used this page? Do you by actual demonstration, know its power? Well? What?

TODAY'S ATTENDANCE
NEAR TEN THOUSANDGREAT CROWD ENJOYS THIRD DAY OF ROCK COUNTY FAIR
AT EVANSVILLE.

A FINE RACE PROGRAM

Star Elect and Dr. Poynter Pitted Against Each Other in 2:13 Pace—Yesterday's Results.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Evansville, August 21.—The attendance at the Rock county fair today was estimated at ten thousand and persons. Weather conditions were ideal and all trains were crowded with visitors bound for the exhibition. Hundreds of automobiles lined the race course and the grand stand was filled at one o'clock with track fans who were eager to witness the contest between Star Elect and Dr. Poynter in the 2:13 pace, the big event of the afternoon's card.

The morning ball game between Brodhead and Monticello resulted in a 9 to 3 victory for Brodhead. Bob Fick and Kittleson were the battery for Monticello and Eldred and Hartman for Brodhead. A home run by Fick in the second inning was the first score of the game but the Brodhead lads came back strong with the stick in the fourth and slammed out five clean hits which put them ahead.

The crowds today and yesterday were well handled and there were no accidents. Four pick-pockets who arrived on the grounds yesterday were arrested within fifteen minutes after they put in an appearance and they did not have an opportunity to work.

Thursday's Attendance.
Over nine hundred people more than were present for the second day of the fair were on the fair grounds yesterday. All business was suspended in the afternoon. Weather conditions were favorable and the best race program ever given at local track was offered. The crowd began to gather on the grounds early in the morning and from then until well into the afternoon there was a steady stream through the gates. Additional throngs were shown in the exhibits owing to the fact that the judging was going on.

George Gano's Exhibition.
The racing program with George Gano in his exhibition race, was especially attractive. George Gano in his exhibition race against time made a new season record of 2:10 on a slow track, due to the heavy rains, and made this record notwithstanding the fact that he cast a shoe in the first three-eighths mile.

Result of Races.
In the 2:25 pace, purse $400, which was watched with unusual interest, the heats were as follows:

Hal S.	1	1
Little Rapids	4	2

Tramp 3 3 3
Time—2:31, 2:30 1/2, 2:33 1/2.

In the 2:24 trot, purse $400, six heats were necessary. The result:

Mac Americus 4 4 4
Baron Maximus, Elewood C. and Manager Shields also entering.

Time—2:24 1/2, 2:24 1/2, 2:24 1/2.
Everyone declared the free attractions the "best ever." The Morocco Arabs were especially so. Introduced a sensational gymnastic exhibition of gun spinning, building, whirling wind springs, and lightning tumbling antics and high leaping events.

Tomorrow's racing program consists of 2:15 trot, purse $400; 2:17 pace, purse $400; free-for-all pace (citizens' purse) $500.
